Give Life to Our Values and Do the Right Thing

At Atos Medical, we are passionate about making life easier for people who live with a neck stoma by providing personalized care and innovative solutions. We always live our values:

We listen – We inspire – We focus – We engage.

Every one of us connects with stakeholders, involves them in our activities and strives to support and empower our users and each other every day. No matter whom we interact with – our users, our colleagues, health care professionals, or other business partners - respect and integrity are at the core of everything we do.

Our Code of Conduct is the common baseline for all of us when discussing compliance and ethical behavior, and will be our day-to-day guidance.

Do the right thing

I expect that you comply with our Code of Conduct as well as with current laws and regulations, and that you do the right thing when making decisions.

I expect all employees to receive regular compliance training, and I expect our managers to keep an open dialogue with their people on ethics and compliance and how high ethics and compliance standards are secured locally.

Speak up

If you have a concern about breaches of the Code of Conduct you must speak up. Go to your manager, or go to the Compliance Officer. Remember that we all share the responsibility for maintaining our good reputation and our high ethical standards.

We are proud of our history and our accomplishments, and want to make sure that we continue to be the world leader in neck stoma care. I rely on your help to make sure that our words and actions always reflect our values and will lead us on the road towards better serving all of our key stakeholders.

The Atos Code of Conduct: How We Give Life to Our Values

Who must follow our Code of Conduct?

At Atos Medical, all employees must adhere to all laws and regulations of the countries where they do business and follow our Code of Conduct. It is your responsibility to know the Code and to know the laws that govern your activities at Atos Medical.

Laws and regulations differ from country to country. In case of conflicts between the principles in the Code of Conduct and local laws and regulations, you must adhere to the stricter regulations.

If you have a management role, you have additional responsibilities to serve as a positive role model. It is your obligation to help your employees understand and use the Code of Conduct and to guide them in ethical questions.

Individuals and companies conducting business on our behalf must also follow our Code of Conduct, in addition to other relevant Atos policies. When dealing with outside business partners, you must see to it that the relevant rules of our Code of Conduct are included in their contracts with us.

What if you breach the Code of Conduct?

Unethical or illegal behavior may cause severe harm to Atos. If you violate the Code of Conduct you may personally risk civil damages, criminal prosecution, and/or disciplinary actions up to and including termination of employment.

Similarly, any business partner working for us or on our behalf, who fails to comply with the principles in our Code of Conduct risks termination of contract and claims for damages.

How do you raise a concern?

If you have concerns about a possible breach of the Code of Conduct, talk to your manager. If you are not comfortable raising the issue with your manager, contact the Compliance Officer or go through our Speak Up Hotline on our external website.

Concerns about employment or health and safety matters should be addressed to corporate or local Human Resources.

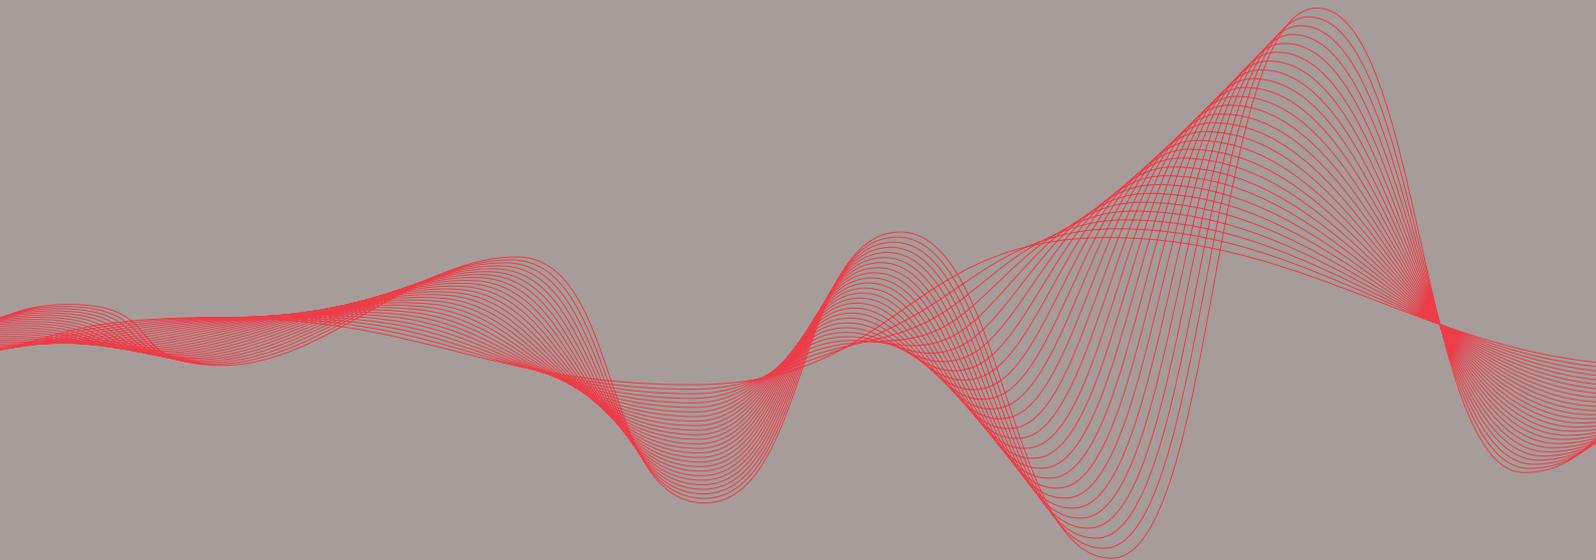

Concerns about product safety or product conformity must always be addressed to corporate or local Quality Assurance (QA).

Remember: you must speak up! It is always better to report a concern or ask for advice than to put your own and Atos Medicals' reputation at risk. Failure to speak up can be a breach of this Code of Conduct on its own. Atos will not accept retaliation against anyone that raises a concern in good faith.

At Atos, we acknowledge that mistakes may happen, and that it may not always be easy to speak up in an open dialogue. This is why we have the Speak Up Hotline where concerns can be reported.

You can find an updated list of global contacts on our international website <http://www.atosmedical.com/compliance/>.

Respect, Integrity and Transparency

Anti-corruption

Our relationships are based on honesty, trust, and the aim for the common good. Corruption damages our relationships, so Atos Medical works against corruption – in all its forms.

Bribery and Extortion

Bribery is illegal worldwide, and may lead to severe criminal sanctions such as fines for the company but also fines and imprisonment for anybody involved. Bribery may occur at the giving or the receiving end of a corrupt relationship. This practice does not need to involve money, it can be money, services, or anything else of value offered or accepted to gain an undue advantage.

Our officers and employees and anybody working on our behalf will not give, offer, obtain, or accept an advantage (money/service/etc.) through means that are illegitimate, immoral and/or inconsistent with your duty or the rights of others. Facilitation payments are also banned at Atos Medical; we do not accept facilitation or “grease” payments (small payments, in cash or in kind, to low-level government officials to perform a routine duty).

We also work against extortion. This means that we will never use illegal force or threats to reach our targets.

You must always	You can never
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• If you are asked to give a bribe, always refuse• If you are asked to accept a bribe always refuse• Refer to our Code of Conduct and explain that bribery is illegal and violates our policies• Immediately report any bribery offers or demands to the Compliance Officer• Extortion is completely banned: You will not obtain money, services or goods or anything else of value through the illegal use of force or threats	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Give or receive anything of value if it could give the impression of having an inappropriate influence or if it could imply that there is an obligation to return the favor• Stay quiet about attempts at bribery or extortion – you must always speak up and report this to the Compliance Officer• Give small payments, in cash or in kind, to low-level government officials to perform a routine duty

Gifts, Hospitality and Entertainment

Atos Medical wants successful working relationships and goodwill with our business partners. However, we are very careful that gifts, hospitality, and other advantages do not jeopardize the integrity of our business dealings.

Gifts, hospitality, and other advantages to outside parties

We never use gifts and hospitality or other advantages to outside parties (government officials, customers, suppliers, partners, users, etc.) to improperly influence others or gain an undue advantage. Stricter rules apply for gifts, hospitality, and other things of value to government officials, and we acknowledge that breaching those rules amounts to corruption. Stricter rules also apply to health care professionals (p. 19) and patients (p. 8).

We make sure that gifts, hospitality, and other advantages are appropriate, legal, fully documented, and that they are compliant not only with our own policies, but also with the policies of the recipient's organization.

You must always	You can never
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Only offer reasonable – not lavish – gifts, hospitality, and other advantages, and only if legal and appropriate• Offer gifts, hospitality, and other advantages openly and ensure accurate documentation• If you have doubts whether gifts, hospitality or other advantages comply with our policies go to your manager or to the Compliance Officer	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Offer gifts, hospitality, or other advantages beyond acceptable courtesy• Offer gifts, hospitality, and other advantages that are against the recipient's policies and local law• Offer gifts, hospitality, or other advantages to gain an undue advantage

Receiving gifts, hospitality, and other advantages from outside parties

We accept that our people receive appropriate hospitality and token gifts from business partners as this is an ordinary way of building business relations in many markets. However, we make sure that gifts, hospitality, and entertainment can never be perceived as inappropriately influencing our business decision.

We do not accept gifts that exceed token value. Hospitality and entertainment are only acceptable when incidental to a business activity, and we do not tolerate lavish hospitality and entertainment.

You must always	You can never
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Accept gifts only in compliance with local laws, regulations, and business practices• If you have doubts whether gifts, hospitality or other advantages are in compliance with the law or with our policies, go to your manager or to the Compliance Officer	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Accept gifts of money, cash, or cash equivalents• Accept gifts, hospitality, or other advantages beyond common courtesy and above token value• Encourage or solicit personal advantages from any business relation of Atos Medical• Accept gifts, hospitality, or other advantages, if it may compromise your or Atos Medical’s integrity

Conflicts of Interest

Conflicts of Interest can be a threat to the integrity of our employees and are detrimental to our decision process. That is why you must always ensure full transparency about any Conflict of Interest that might occur.

Anyone of us may face a conflict of interest from time to time, if our private or personal interests compete or conflict (or even appear to compete or conflict) with the interests of Atos Medical. Private and personal interests include, but are not limited to, your family, your relatives and other relations, your friends, the clubs and societies to which you belong, your private business interests, your investments and shareholdings, or any person to whom you owe a favor or are obligated to in any way.

Family members and other close relationships

Relationships with family members and close personal friends can influence our decisions. At Atos Medical, we are careful about Company business decisions that involve close personal relationships. We do not accept that our managers hire, supervise, or promote family members, close relatives, or close personal relations.

If a conflict of interest arises within an Atos Medical unit or department, the manager must assess the situation, and consult with her or his own manager on how to resolve the situation. In these cases, one of the employees may be transferred to another available position where there is no conflict.

Other personal interests outside Atos Medical

Conflicts of interest may also occur if you have other personal interests that could be seen as conflicting with our Company interests – e.g. if you have investments or shareholdings in competitors, suppliers, or distributors, or you have family, friends or relatives that work at competitors, suppliers or other business partners.

To make sure that Conflicts of Interest will never compromise your integrity or cast doubt on your business decisions, you must always declare any Conflict of Interest to your manager and remove yourself from the decision process.

You must always	You can never
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Be conscious about family and other relations, and any personal interests that might conflict with the interests of Atos Medical• Inform your manager about any possible conflicts of interest• Try to avoid putting yourself in an actual or perceived conflict of interest• If a conflict of interest occurs, immediately declare the conflict of interest in writing to your manager, and step away from the decision-making process and follow your manager's instructions	<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Supervise or take part in the hiring or promoting of a family member• Hold a position with access to or influence over performance appraisals, salary information or other confidential information related to a family member or relative• Try to handle a Conflict of Interest by thinking that you're able to base your decisions on professional judgment only: Remember, it will still look wrong• Stay quiet about possible Conflicts of Interest

This is why we from time to time provide sponsorships, donations, and grants to health care organizations as well as to patient organizations.

When providing sponsorships, grants, or donations, we follow applicable regulations on transparency, publication, and reporting, and we never use sponsorships, grants, or donations as a hidden inducement to generate sales, use, prescription, or recommendation of our products, and we make sure that decisions on sponsorships, grants, and donations are made outside our sales and marketing processes.

When working with health care professionals (HCPs), we follow the applicable laws and regulations – both in our country and in the HCP’s country. Competition Law Compliance

Fair competition makes great companies like Atos Medical flourish. We encourage and support fair competition, and we do not accept illegal behavior. Breaches may lead to severe criminal sanctions for the company as well as for anybody involved.

Abuse of a Dominant Position

Competition Law prohibits companies from engaging in abusive behavior such as e.g. dumping prices, illegal obstructions, or unfair discrimination.

Our strong market position is built on fairness, and relies on high quality products, fair prices, high standards of service, and a deep understanding of user needs. At Atos Medical we only compete on fair terms and will never abuse our strength to illegally eliminate competition.

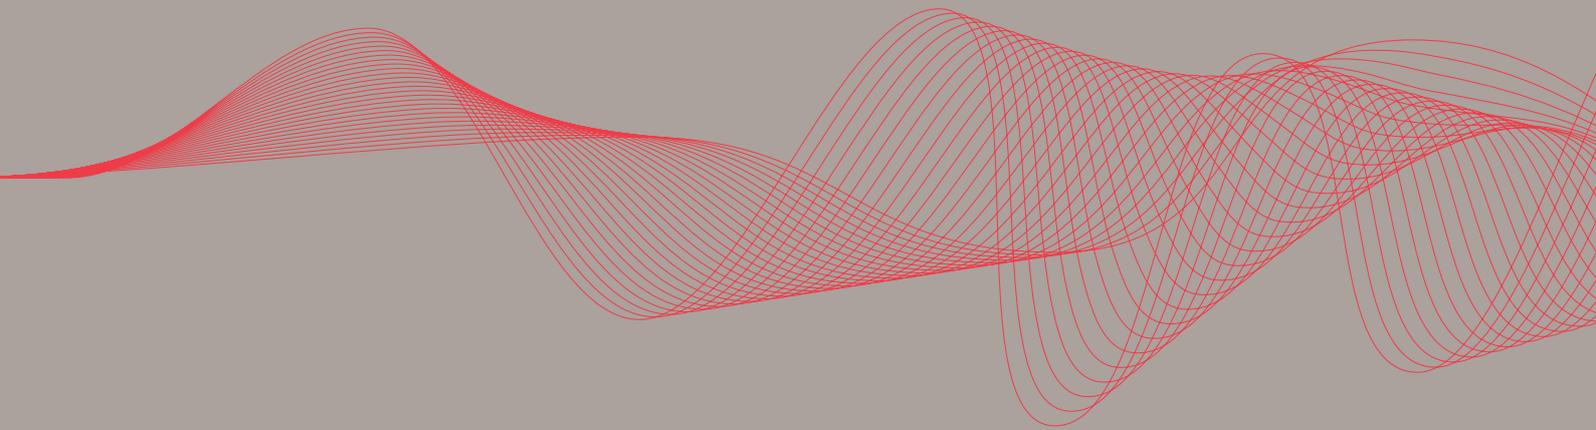

Cartels

Competition Law also bans illegal cartels, collusion, and other anti-competitive practices, whether they are horizontal (among competitors) or vertical (through different links of the supply chain), and include e.g. price fixing, bid rigging, market sharing, group boycott or discrimination.

Atos Medical will never be a part of any agreement or “meeting of the minds”, whether just a handshake, a silent coordination of practices, a “gentlemen’s agreement” or a formal contract that has as its objective or effect to restrict or distort fair competition.

You must always	You can never
